

Early years foundation stage profile moderation: essential requirements and effective practice for local authorities

These tables set out requirements for robust local authority (LA) moderation and identify essential requirements and examples of effective practice. They are designed to help you plan and carry out your moderation duties.

The requirements at the top of each section draw on the statutory early years foundation stage \(EYFS\) framework.

Moderation plan

The LA should plan an annual programme to ensure that its statutory duty in relation to the moderation of the EYFS profile judgements is met.

Essential requirements

- The Standards and Testing Agency (STA) requires LAs to have a completed internal moderation plan for EYFS profile.
- LAs must provide to STA details via an STA online survey of the main contact details for the moderation team and specifically an accountable LA officer who has strategic responsibility for the planning and implementation of EYFS profile moderation.
- LAs must address any relevant action points which arose from STA's 2016 external moderation process in their 2017 planning.
- Details of the moderation process are communicated to all relevant stakeholders.
- LAs must have a specific appeals procedure in relation to the moderation of EYFS profile judgements.

External moderation team

In order to carry out its statutory role the LA external moderation team must have a thorough understanding and experience of the principles and practice of the EYFS profile and appropriate experience of the EYFS.

Essential requirements

- The moderation team includes personnel with appropriate and recent EYFS experience.
- Moderators are recruited who have the appropriate skills and capabilities to carry out their role.
- Moderators are trained and participate regularly in LA moderation activities, using exemplification of national standards to ensure consistency.
- The LA has an effective process for the recruitment of new moderators as appropriate.
- Moderators new to the role undertake a suitable induction process. As part of their induction, newly appointed moderators have access to a mentor and opportunities to shadow a more experienced colleague.

Moderation cycle

LAs must ensure that all 17 early learning goals (ELGs) are moderated annually in a 25% sample of settings. All practitioners responsible for the completion of the EYFS profile who are not receiving a moderation visit should take part in training.

Essential requirements

- All settings receive a moderation visit on a four-year cycle. In addition to planned visits to all settings on a four-year cycle, moderation visits/support may be triggered by:
 - presence of newly qualified teachers and practitioners new to the EYFS
 - requests from the headteacher or manager
 - concerns identified by the school improvement partner or LA personnel
 - data anomalies
 - non-attendance at training events
- All 17 ELGs are moderated annually: moderation doesn't focus on a specific area of learning or set of ELGs at the expense of others.
- Moderation visits take place during the summer term.

Moderation visits to schools and settings

As part of their statutory duty for moderation, LAs are required to visit schools and settings implementing the EYFS profile on a regular basis. This should be on a four-year cycle so that 25% of practitioners responsible for the completion of the EYFS profile are visited each year.

Essential requirements

The moderation visit focuses on a professional dialogue between the moderator and each practitioner responsible for completing EYFS profiles.

- LAs ensure that practitioners are familiar with STA guidance materials and moderators reference these where relevant during the moderation visit.
- For each ELG the moderator establishes whether EYFS profile assessment is in line with exemplified national standards.
- Contributions from parents and the child are actively sought by practitioners and are used to inform the judgements made for the EYFS profile.
- Visits take place at an agreed time within the school day, with practitioners released for the duration of the visit.
- The moderator establishes the accuracy and consistency of practitioner judgements by scrutinising a range of evidence, the majority of which will come from the practitioner's knowledge of the child and observations of the child's self-initiated activities. (Moderators must not scrutinise recorded evidence without the practitioner present.)
- At the time of the visit, the practitioner provides the moderator with a list of the EYFS profile interim outcomes for each child. The moderator selects 5 complete profiles across the range of attainment ('emerging', 'expected' and 'exceeding'). These will form the basis of the moderation dialogue.
- When moderating EYFS profile judgements in multiple form entry schools, moderators must ensure that all practitioners participate in the moderation dialogue. Moderators should ensure that the judgements moderated cover all 17 ELGs including judgements from all 3 attainment bands for each class. Moderators should adjust the size of the sample as appropriate to ensure that this can be achieved.
- The moderator must ensure that within the constraints of the range of attainment available, practitioner judgements for all 17 ELGs are moderated. The moderator is unlikely to scrutinise all 17 ELGs for all 5 children, but will ensure that judgements are moderated from each of the 3 outcome bands ('emerging', 'expected' and 'exceeding').
- Information concerning the characteristics of effective learning is an integral part of the moderation dialogue.
- Moderators ensure that judgements are validated throughout the professional dialogue.

- Outcomes of internal and cross-school moderation are considered within the moderation dialogue. Moderators establish how settings develop and use internal moderation processes.
- At the end of the visit, the moderator informs the headteacher or manager of the outcome of moderation.
- Where the moderator judges that the assessment is not in line with exemplification of national standards, the LA can require the headteacher or manager to both reconsider the practitioner's judgements as advised by the moderator and arrange further training opportunities for the practitioner.

Specific EYFS profile training

STA expects LAs to offer training to their schools on the EYFS profile. The format and structure of this training can be agreed and arranged locally by each LA.

Specific training, which includes agreement trialling, should be provided to ensure that EYFS profile assessments are in line with the requirements set out in the EYFS statutory framework.

Essential requirements
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• EYFS profile training is provided for practitioners responsible for the completion of the EYFS profile.• The LA has a system in place to follow up concerns raised by the moderators during training.• Exemplification of national standards is used to support training and ensure national consistency with regard to the principles and processes of EYFS profile assessment and the accuracy of judgements.• Systems are in place to monitor attendance at all training events; non-attendance is followed up where appropriate.

Data collection and analysis

LAs are required to collect EYFS profile data. This collection (and subsequent return to the Department for Education (DfE) where required) should be carried out in line with the assessment and reporting arrangements.

Essential requirements

- All EYFS providers have an appropriate system to record and submit EYFS profile data.
- Systems for the collection, submission and analysis of EYFS profile data are evaluated and developed each year. The LA moderation manager has an effective working relationship with both the LA, schools' IT and data analysis teams.

Quality assurance of EYFS profile data

Settings and LAs must have quality assurance processes in place to ensure that the data submitted for each child is an accurate reflection of their attainment.

Essential requirements

- Headteachers and managers take responsibility for the reliability of the EYFS profile outcomes and ensure that the data accurately reflects the attainment of their cohort of children.
- The LA has an effective process for the quality assurance of EYFS profile data prior to submission to the DfE. EYFS profile data from settings is scrutinised by the moderation manager and the LA data team.
- The LA scrutinises data at a level of detail that enables anomalies to be identified and highlighted to settings for review and amendment (where necessary).
- Amendments to EYFS profile outcomes are made prior to submission to the DfE.
